

FUTURE OF MY BEST FRIEND

You will run away, because you will be afraid of an English test. You will miss a train to Bratislava, so you will have to walk. You will have a hole in your pocket, and you will lose your money. Two days later you will be in Bratislava. You won't have any money, so you will dance and sing and people will throw some money into your hat. You will be very poor, but you will save money, and one day you will buy a goat for it. You will drink its milk and with the rest of the money you will buy bread rolls. You will live a very modest life, and when you die at your 98, your goat will graze on your grass-covered grave.

Hmmm... If I were you, I'd stay home and pass the English test.

Beáta Hyžná (6.C)